Submitted to His Highness.

24 The accompanying papers relate to the admissibility of travelling allowances to Mr. Reddy, Educational Officer on special duty, for certain journeys performed by him between Bangalore and Mysore.

25 2. As soon as Mr. C.R.Reddy, Professor, Maharaja's College, returned from his deputation in Europe and America in March last, he was placed on special duty for some time to prepare (1) a detailed working scheme for a local University with appendices containing the information collected by him about Universities in the countries he visited, and (2) a list of matters regarding which he had also collected information in his travels which might be of practical value to the State and which might be futther developed within the next three years.

26 3. While on this special duty, Mr. Reddy was attached to the Education section of the General and Revenue Secretariat and accordingly Bangalore should have been his head quarters. But to suit his convenience Mr. Reddy was granted permission to work at Mysore.

27 4. In the months of July and August 1914, Mr. Reddy performed certain journeys between Bangalore and Mysore, involving halts of four and twelve days respectively at Bangalore. As regards the halts, Mr. Reddy has already been told that daily allowances are inadmissible under the rules, and the question now to be decided is therefore whether even the allowances for the railway journey between Bangalore and Mysore should also be disallowed.

28 5. The Financial Secretary is of opinion that no travelling allowances are permissible to him on the analogy of Article 616, Mysore Service Regulations as the journey was not undertaken in the interests of Public service.

29 6. The First Member of Council considers that the allowances usually admissible on account of the journeys by railway and road may be allowed and I agree with him.

30 7. As the Financial Secretary adheres to his opinion, I submit these papers for His Highness's gracious consideration and orders under paragraph 8 of Government Order No. Fl. 8328-33 dated 6th May 1907.
